Interface announces new office in the United Kingdom

David Banfield, President of The Interface Financial Group, announces three new UK-based Interface offices, the first step in establishing an IFG-UK network that will provide alternative funding to small businesses.

Irvine, CA (May 25, 2010) – At its annual franchisee conference, David Banfield, President of The Interface Financial Group, announced the establishment of three new UK-based franchises.

This is another first for IFG as they expand their operations base into the U.K. Currently Interface operates their franchise system in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Singapore and the United States.

The new offices will not only offer the unique brand of financing that IFG has delivered in other countries for the past 38 years but they will also be the foundation on which a UK network of offices will be established. Interface offers a premier financial service franchise serving the small business community.

Interface holds the prestigious distinction of being rated a 'world class' franchise by the Franchise Research Institute based in the United States. Interface has a strong background in providing specific niche financial services to small business, a service they can now offer in the U.K.

Banfield noted that with mainstream financial institutions such as 'high street' banks under pressure opportunities for small business funding are declining. Interface plans to offer alternative funding that will rejuvenate the small business marketplace.

Because all Interface offices are independently owned and managed they are able to respond to their client's needs in a very time effective manner.

Banfield indicated that the move into the UK market represents a significant step forward in the growth plans of the organisation.
